Bindery Livadiotis

Established in 1951, Bindery Livadiotis is a small enterprise with attention to detail offering bespoke, personalised items of stationary.

The enterprise is well known for a specialisation in bookbinding offering workshops to adults and young of all ages, throughout the year.

Traditional skills and crafts of a vintage heritage can be both therapeutic and of value to those people that will benefit from such products and services developed from those skills.

Using traditional techniques and by applying the skills developed with machinery dating back 100's of years, the high quality and consistency achieved is still in demand by modern society.

A typical group excited about the prospect of learning a new skill from age old traditions.

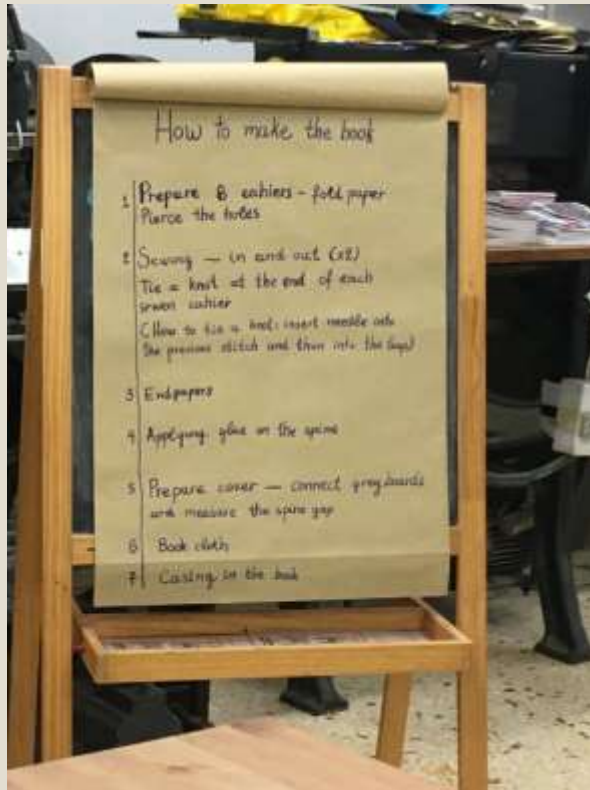

The proprietors Rania and Nikos share their enthusiasm for this inspiring, creative enterprise.

An informative introduction to the traditional skills and products still in demand today.

The step by step process of bookbinding along with a takeaway DIY kit.

Tyraki, muikku, pasarika, cheese, patata!

Ready, steady, go!

DIY= Do it yourself

Thud, thud, thud!

Watch out! Too much glue!

Work, work, work!
